

All about Beth F.

Who am I?

I am Beth and I work as an Assistant Educational Psychologist for Swindon Borough Council. I love to learn new languages. I enjoy being outside and spending time with people I love. People would say that I'm calm, kind and patient.

What do I do?

As an Assistant Educational Psychologist, I help children and young people to reach their goals and be successful within their education setting. To achieve this, I work closely with families, teachers and other professionals.

What is important to me?

Everybody deserves to thrive and feels they belong in their education setting. It is important to me that you feel comfortable, heard and respected. This involves you being part of decision making. I like to work collaboratively with important people in your life, such as parents and teachers.

What to expect when you meet me?

You might see me in your classroom or on the playground. To get to know you better, we might go and play some games, do some activities or draw in a calm space. We might have a chat about things you love and are good at and figure out how we can work together. You may see me talking to adults at your school or even at home so I can find out even better about who you are!

How best to contact me?

To get in touch with me, you can speak to the SENCo at your education setting. You can also reach me via the Swindon Educational Psychology Services email: EPSenquiries@swindon.gov.uk
