

All about Dr Liz Bishop

Who am I?

I am Liz and I'm an Educational Psychologist. I like learning new things and talking to people. I enjoy music, reading and being outside, especially near the sea. People say I am helpful, flexible and friendly.

This is me

What do I do?

I go to lots of places, mostly schools, to meet children and young people and the adults who look after and help them.

Some of the things I like doing in my job are spending time with children, learning about psychology, and helping people solve problems.

What is important to me?

I value my job because I like to see all children happy and learning, and because I believe it's important that everyone feels able to succeed and make positive changes in their lives.

What to expect when you meet me:

I may come to spend some time in your lessons, I may have a chat with you and do some activities, and I may talk with adults who know you.
