

All about Suzanne

I am the Deputy Principal Educational Psychologist (DPEP).

Who am I?

I started working in Swindon Borough Council in 2019 and Prior to training as an EP in 2015, I have experience of being a secondary school music teacher, psychology research assistant and primary mental health worker.

What do I do?

In my role as DPEP, I am jointly responsible for the leadership, management and delivery of the Educational Psychology Service. I am also responsible for supporting key strategic priorities across the local area alongside working in partnership with other agencies.

What is important to me?

The service aims to support inclusion, which means helping children and young people to remain in mainstream settings where appropriate and be fully included in school and community life. It is also important to me that the service improves outcomes for children and young people, through the application of psychology. As well as work, my baby boy and his two older sisters are very important to me. You can often find us at Longleat on weekends, as we live very nearby.

How best to communicate with me?

I am always very happy to be contacted at EPSenquires.gov.uk

What to expect when you meet me?

I do this job because I enjoy leading a highly experienced team of psychologists, who are all committed to affecting change and improving outcomes for children and young people. I am passionate about what I do and enjoy looking for creative ways to solve problems.
