

All about Ursula

Who am I?

Hello! I'm Ursula, I work as an Assistant Educational Psychologist at Swindon Borough Council. To relax, I enjoy reading, spending time with my cats, and I'm trying to teach myself how to crochet. People usually describe me as chatty and kind.

This is me

What do I do?

As an Assistant Educational Psychologist, I work with children and young people to help them with their experiences in education and achieve their goals. To do this, I also work closely with families, teachers and other professionals.

What is important to me?

I do my job because I enjoy working with people, and because I think everyone deserves to get as much out of their education as possible. It's important to me that young people's voices are heard and that they feel part of decisions made about their education. I like to work collaboratively with the other people in children's lives, such as parents and teachers, to achieve this.

What to expect when you meet me:

I will want to get to know who you are and hear about all the things you enjoy, but also the things you find difficult or don't like doing. We will also talk about the way we might work together and I'll ask you questions to help us understand how this will work best for you. It's important to me that we both feel comfortable in these conversations, so you can also ask me questions, for example, if you need me to explain something again or differently.

How best to communicate with me:

If you need to get in touch with me, you can speak to the SENCo at your setting. You can also get in contact by email using the Swindon Educational Psychology Services email address:
