

All about Alexa

I am the Principal Educational Psychologist.

I started my educational psychology career as a trainee here in Swindon in 2003.

I focus on managing the Educational Psychology Service and contributing to strategic projects related to the inclusion and achievement of children and young people.

I have previously worked as a research assistant in the memory & learning department of Bristol University. I also worked within the Family Service here in Swindon during a 3-year secondment from the EPS.

My hobbies are playing and umpiring netball. I also enjoy playing tennis. I have two daughters; one at university and the other at secondary school in Oxfordshire.

I do this job because I am passionate about ensuring that all children and young people have the right support at the right time for their educational needs.

I also love managing such a talented, dedicated and friendly team of Educational Psychologists here in Swindon.

The best way to communicate with me is via email at:

epsenquiries@swindon.gov.uk

I am always very happy to receive and respond to any queries and comments about the Educational Psychology Service.
