

All about Robyn

Who am I?

My name is Robyn Davis and I work as an Assistant Educational Psychologist for Swindon Borough Council. I like to read, swim and bake. I have made various occasion cakes including 3 wedding cakes!

People describe me as kind, calm and friendly!

What do I do?

My job as Assistant Educational Psychologist allows me to support children and young people to achieve their goals and thrive in their education setting.

To achieve this, I might work with your family, teachers and other professionals.

This is me

What is important to me?

It is important that you feel comfortable and understood when you work with me. Inclusivity and collaboration are my highest priorities. This means that I will work alongside you, your family and other key adults to ensure you feel heard and understood when making decisions about your education.

What to expect when you meet me

When I first meet you, I may see you in your classroom or on the playground to see how you interact with your friends and teachers. I will want to get to know you so we may go and play some games or do some drawing in a quiet, calm space. I may ask you about what you like and things you enjoy. I'll ask about things you find difficult to help me understand how I can support you.

You may see me talking to the adults at your school or even your family. This is to get a whole picture of who you are and how we can all help you thrive!

SWINDON
BOROUGH COUNCIL

How best to communicate with me:

If you need to get in touch with me, you can speak to the SENCo at your setting. You can also get in contact by email using the Swindon Educational Psychology Services email address:

EPSenquiries@swindon.gov.uk