

Stammering

What I have to say is worth waiting for...

Swindon Stammering Service 2023

We are all unique- no one is quite like us- look around the room and you'll notice things about others that are the same as you but also things that are different. Just like we all look different- hair, eyes, skin, height- our brain's are also all different- no one has a brain quite like yours.... It would be boring if we were all the same

*Because our brains are all different it means we all have different strengths, weakness, interests and tastes and our voices are all completely unique too- as individual as a fingerprint some people speak smoothly, some people speak loudly, some people speak quietly, some people have gruff voices, some people have a different accent, some people use words or pictures and some people
STAMMER*

Quiz

Stammering is caused by being nervous?

More boys stammer than girls?

Stammering can run in families?

Speech Therapists fix someone's stammer?

Stammering and stuttering are different things?

Stammering is caused by being nervous?

False- it's neurological, this means it happens in our brain

More boys stammer than girls?

True and 8% of children stammer. Every 8 in 100 kids might stammer

Stammering can run in families?

True

Speech Therapists fix someone's stammer?

False- stammering isn't something that needs fixing it is a different way of talking- we help young people feel confident and comfortable to say what they want to say when they want to say it

Stammering and stuttering are different things?

False- stammering is British, stuttering is American but they mean the same thing

What is Stammering?

Stammering is a different way of talking. Everybody who stammers is different

Stammering can sound like

- Repetitions
- Stretching sounds or
- Blocking

Stammering can also be

- How some-one feels on the inside
- Hiding stammering from others because of past reactions

THE FLUENCY TRUST
Working in partnership with

Stammering is a way of talking that means speech fluency is different. Stammering has been described as like an iceberg- that's because there are parts of stammering you others see (above the water line) and parts that people don't see, below the water line.

Stammering can sound like repetitions, stretching sounds or blocking Stammering can mean some people find it hard to

Give presentations

Ask for help

Order food in the canteen or restaurant

Ask for something in a shop

Put their hand up in class and answer questions eve though they know the answer

Making new friends

Use the telephone

Joining in with group conversations

Stammering can also be about how someone feels on the inside. It can affect how they feel about themselves, feelings like shame, embarrassment, isolation, fear, anxiety and frustration may show up. Some people try to hide their stammer because they feel embarrassed about what others think of them and because of reactions they have had in the past from others around them. Everybody who stammers is different

Famous People

Stammering can be a strength

People who stammer are often creative, good listeners, sensitive and empathic (seeing some-one else's point of view)

what they have to say can have a big impact and stick in people's minds.

Stammering people can go in to any job and some people have even become famous Stammering Actors, musicians, politicians,. Sporting stars, Teachers, speech therapists, journalists, doctors even a King

CHAPTER 1

The past, the present and the future walked into a bar.
It was tense.

Everything I say is important. Or at least, that's what my mum tells me. Sometimes she makes me repeat it out loud. It's embarrassing. Saying anything out loud can be embarrassing when you're me.

That's what I'm doing right now. Practising. Over and over, in the mirror. You'll find me here pretty often; it's where I do most of my chatting. Watching my eyes tighten to a close and my jaw tense up.

"M-m-my name is B-B-B-Billy Pliimpton a-a-a-a and I have a stammer. My name is Billy Plimpton and I have a stammer. My naaame is Biiiiiilly and I have a s-s-s-s-s-stammer."

1

Working in partnership with

In your school library about Billy who starts secondary school and stammers- he wants to be a comedian- but can he do this and stammer?

What helps?

- GIVING TIME- Wait for them to say what they need to say
- BE KIND Stammering is a different way of talking. Be kind and encouraging
- TAKE TURNS Make sure everyone gets a chance to say what they want to say
- LISTEN Listen to what they have to say, not how they say it. Show you are listening using your body language.
- REASSURE If some-one is struggling with talking, say 'It's OK, I am listening' . Ask what helps them.
- If you are worried about stammering, talk to someone. Reach out to your parent or a teacher. You can get help if stammering is bothering you

Swindon
SPEECH CENTRE

If you are worried about stammering, talk to someone. Reach out to your parent or a teacher. You can get help if stammering is bothering you

Thank you

Swindon
BOROUGH COUNCIL

Working in partnership with helping people who stammer communicate confidently